Description:

Maquis Jaïn is a beautiful dark silver grey male from prestigious lines bringing together on one side Inca Grey Flyte and on the other LMFI Peruvian Best Bet worthily represented by his mother CME Divine, a very pretty female very well developed with impressive bone structure.

Jain immediately catches the eye, he has a fabulous presence and is very well developed.

His fleece is a good combination of density and fineness. Above all, it is very uniform in fineness with an excellent ratio of primary fibers to secondary fibers and excellent uniformity between light fibers and dark fibers.

He is also interesting in its color uniformity with a few very little spots.

Let's not forget to mention an excellent length of 130mm in his first fleece at just 9 months old! Another positive trait inherited from his father Inca Grey Flyte.

Jaïn was tested in the Grey Color DNA test at Neogen and he is Classic Grey and black with black skin, which is of course very interesting in any grey breeding program.
