Description:

Wuthering Heights Hermes is a very striking looking young male who has been carefully bred for both looks and quality fibre. Conformationally this upcoming sire is very strong as has correct leg angulation, great proportion, true to type head and he carries himself with a stylish presence.

He is growing a fleece that is extremely fine, dense, bright and uniform in micron and we feel it will retain these qualities as he matures and grows his second fleece.

With a raft of highly valued and well known bloodlines in his pedigree and the genetic power to breed a range of colour, this male is great value for those wishing to get in early for the upcoming breeding season.

This young sire comes with a full veterinary examination and fertility guarantee and is perfectly halter trained and is easy to handle.

Wuthering Heights Hermes is a stunning looking young male who is under management here at Inca Alpaca and being sold on consignment.

Please note. staple length and weight have been annualised due to ten months growth.
