Description:

Camille is a great investment for a breeder with ambitions. She was awarded a rosette on each of her three show outings where the strength and dept of the competition was eye-watering. Pairing her with a quality male now that's she of breeding age should produce something special; her Bozedown and Fowberry genetics should offer support for that. Camille is a lovely looking animal, with excellent fleece characteristics. Fine and uniform, the structure in her fleece is visible as crimp from skin to tip. As you'll see from the images, she has a small fawn semi-colon on her left flank, which has clearly not impacted on her in the show ring. Her fleece is otherwise a bright white with no colour contamination. She is easy to handle and is - of course - fully halter trained.
