Description:

This gorgeous harlequin weanling male is one of those alpacas that people instantly notice—with his adorable freckled face and unique colouring.

He is well-grown and nicely put together, with balanced conformation and a bright, alert presence coupled with a relaxed, friendly nature. Used to regular handling, he's easy to manage, curious, and seems to enjoy attention without being pushy.

His fleece is particularly interesting - very fine with a long staple and he's expected to shear to a lovely dark grey, with spots and markings which will make him even more distinctive as he matures. A great option if you're looking to add something a bit different to your herd, whether for fibre, future breeding, or simply as an adorable addition to a group of pet males.

Ideally, because of his young age, he will be sold with one or two friends of the same age, even if joining an existing herd and I do have several young males, of various colours, also available.

Up to date with vaccinations, routine care and ready for a new home.

Ongoing support always available to owners who are new to alpaca keeping
