Description:

Inca Grampian is a well grown and strong male who reached maturity attain early age. His conformation is very correct and he displays a true to type head, great proportion and he moves in a fluid motion and with great presence. he fleece on this male carries many of the positive traits expected in an elite herd sire. The fibre is very soft, dense, bright and uniform in micron right across the saddle and up into his neck.

What makes this male special is the depth of quality and the uniformity in phenotype that his bloodlines share. The high level of quality running through both sides of his pedigree clearly produces excellent , predictable,progeny.

Inca Grampian is the ideal male for those breeders looking to bring deep colour and well known current bloodlines into their herd
