Description:

Romulus is a truly stunning solid fawn boy. He has perfect conformation and a soft, very bright, dense and luxuriously handling fleece with a bold medium frequency crimp style which is consistent throughout the blanket and into the extremities. His father's fleece at 7 years had an mfd of 17.7 microns and his mother's at 9 years had an mfd of 23.4 microns - so he is very likely to maintain fineness into old age. Romulus started working in 2015 and all of the five girls he was put to scanned as pregnant. He has produced many more cria in 2018. Romulus is very fertile and most females are pregnant after one service. If you are breeding for colour with fleece qualities to challenge the best whites, you should certainly consider using Romulus in your breeding programme. Romulus II is co-owned by Snowhill Alpacas with whom stud services maybe also be arranged. Please contact either Snowhill Alpacas or Latton Alpacas to enquire about dates for where he will be standing through the season.
